- 1. The laceuer and dye factory at Medwode, which employs 60 workers and operates in one shift, produces oil-base paints, lacquers, nitro lacquers, varnishes, and synthetic waxes, most of which are delivered to the Yugoslav Army, only a small part of the output being reserved for civilian needs. Raw materials are of domestic origin. Froduction suffers from a great lack of oleaginous seeds, especially of lemon seeds for varnishes.
